Dr. Zillner Helps to Organize New MSC Counseling Program

The man who helped to make a guidance counseling service a reality for Northwest Missouri State College students is Dr. Lawrence Zillner.

Dr. Zillner began this project a year ago when he came to NWMSC after serving as junior high and high school counselor at Pittsburg, Kan., for eight years. At that time he explained, "High school counselors have exposed students to the counseling program; yet when they come to college, we have little to offer them in the area of formalized counseling services."

Now that a counseling service is available to all NWMSC students, he says, "Our motivating force behind initiating the service was not only from our own recognition of the need for a counseling service on our campus, but also from area counselors who reported the success of such a program. This indicated to us that this is an area in which we have been a little remiss, especially among freshman students. . . We needed someone that the students could go to, that they could talk to. We must follow up and take over where the high school counselor leaves off."

Any student may take advantage of this counseling service, which includes several different areas.

For example, a veteran's counseling consists of an educational-vocational type of approach. Tests are given to find out aptitude, ability, and interests; then occupations are explored in terms of these tests. Personality and behavioral characteristics are also taken into consideration. An educational plan which involves the veteran's objective is then prepared and submitted to the Veteran's Administration for approval. This is available but not required for veterans who are already receiving benefits but is required of war orphans, children of veterans who are disabled, and veterans with service-connected disabilities.

Other students may seek counseling in the educational-vocational area also if they have not, for example, decided upon a major, but there is also counseling for personal problems of adjustment.

At a meeting involving high school counselors and college freshmen, the most frequently mentioned problem of the freshmen was that students do not know to whom they should go to ask questions.

Students are urged to go to Dr. Zillner if they have any problems or questions about their life at college. Dr. Zillner, who is not an administrative official has this message for all students: "Many people feel there is something derogatory about going to a counselor. It is natural and desirable for a person to seek consultation and help from people who are available for that purpose."

Dr. Zillner pointed out that students leave NWMSC each year for various reasons. He feels that the college is responsible for all these students, and he is available to help these students in any way he can and make suggestions for their further education.

Since last fall, an average of five students have contacted Dr. Zillner daily. With such a response without previous publicity, plans are now being made for adding another full-time counselor.

Students who wish to see Dr. Zillner may go to his office in Room 119 of the Administration Building at any time on Tuesdays and Thursdays and on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays by appointment.

In the Future

When the graduate program gets underway, the counseling center will serve as a practical center for training, and with the completion of the science building, remodeling in the Administration Building will provide rooms for counselors in training and one-way observation laboratories.

Also planned for the future is a browsing library in Dr. Zillner's office that will contain information about various occupational and educational opportunities.

Writers Invited To Submit Work For Authors' Fair

All writers of the area — youth, college students, and adults — are invited to submit writing for an Arts Festival sponsored by the Literary Arts Division of the Nodaway Arts Council.

A 12:30 o'clock luncheon at Armstrong's Restaurant will highlight the fair, scheduled for April 8. Many types of writing samples, varying from prose and poetry to letters and advertising, will be accepted by the fair committee. Some of the authors will be asked to interpret their own creations at the program.

As a special feature, the Shepherd-Campbell-Lefler Trio from St. Joseph will present a literary and musical interpretive program.

Interested college students and instructors who want more information about the area's first literary arts festival may contact Mrs. Hauser Winter, chairman, or Miss Mary Jackson, assistant professor of Spanish and a member of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Any people who wish may make reservations for the luncheon by contacting Mrs. Winter or Miss Jackson.

New Handball Courts Used By PE Class

Dr. Gates Trains Racket Players

An activity course including three racket sports and handball has been added to the Health, Physical Education, and Recreation Department's program this semester.

In PE 20, instructed by Dr. Paul Gates, ping pong, smash, paddleball, and handball are combined into one course. The course was made possible by the construction of two handball courts in the Lamkin Gymnasium basement.

Handball is the most vigorous of all recreational activities, according to Dr. Gates.

Physical Education 20 instructor Dr. Paul Gates teaches Joe Zembles, Dan Miller, Larry Newman, and Harvey Hallum the proper paddleball serve. When serving in this game, the wrist should break similarly to the way the wrist breaks in the badminton serve.

In this game, two, three, or four players may use the court. When three play, it is called cut-throat because the three alternate, with the one serving playing against the other two.

Paddleball is played on the same court, but a short-handled tennis racket and an air-centered ball are used to slow the game down considerably. Points in both games are normally scored when the defense fails to return the ball or the server makes two successive illegal serves.

Smash is a modified ping pong game in which an enlarged paddle and ball are used with a three-sided table. The ball, which bounces off the walls and back to the players, must be successfully returned to the table to earn a point.

Paddleball and handball have become popular games for several faculty members. Frequent visitors to the courts are Dr. Donald Armstrong, Dr. John Beeks, Jerry Brekke, Harmon Mothershead, David Bell, Roger Corley, Wayne Van Zomeren, Frank Mannasmith and Jerry Winsor.

"As fast as these two sports are growing in popularity, it shouldn't be long before more courts will be needed," Dr. Gates predicted.

Senate, Businessmen Help Groups Tell Activity Story

The Northwest Missouri State College Student Senate is working as the co-ordinator between the Maryville Chamber of Commerce and NWMSC in planning the Night on the Town to be held Thursday.

Included in the Night on the Town activities will be organizational displays to be presented in the stores next week. These displays will enable the various campus organizations to advertise their activities and goals to both the townspeople and students.

The Senate hopes that these informative displays will create an atmosphere of better understanding and co-operation between the students and the community. For these reasons, the Senate urges all groups to get their displays up on time.

In addition to the displays, drawings for prizes furnished by Maryville merchants will be held. For details of the drawings, please consult the opposite page.

The Senate believes that the sponsoring of this Night on the Town by the Chamber of Commerce is a fine gesture on the part of the Maryville businessmen, and it urges that all students attend and help make this fun night a big success.

Senate Finds Way to Speak for Students

John Phoenix, a representative of GDI, proposed recently that the Senate consider placing the initials NWMSC in block formation on the campus water tower. The Senate is now in the process of gathering information concerning the project.

THE STROLLER

Cat Nips

Tanner, the campus cat, took time from his busy schedule to be interviewed by the Stroller who, after his inquiry, has brought up some very revealing facts.

Star Tanner

Tanner was just a common calico cat without a name until one day last year when members of the Drama Department picked her up from the sidewalks of NWMSC, gave her a tranquilizer to assure obedience, and starred her in the role of the male cat Mr. Tanner in the play "Everybody Loves Opal." After this debut, the "Mr." was dropped from her name, and she resumed her female identity.

Tanner now makes her home in the Administration Building, dining on her favorite cat food in the office of the Drama Department, sleeping in the Little Theater, and wandering freely to other offices and classrooms in the building.

Although she has not been in another play, Tanner hasn't lost her flair for the stage. She often sits in on play rehearsals, movies, assemblies, and classes, where she immediately becomes the center of attraction (or distraction)!

After getting all the facts, the Stroller concluded that Tanner should become an honorary member of this institution, so with the help of the registrar's office, Tanner is now a registered member.

Wrestlers Surprise Mentor At Finale for Dual Meets

Coach Landwer Releases Spirit

Successful wrestling coach Jerry Landwer explodes with excitement when Captain Ron James pins one of his opponents.

Landwer believes his 1964-65 mat team, which posted a 13-0 record, was his best all-around squad. That year NWMSC placed ninth in the NCAA college division, and four boys were named national place winners. Those four were Lonny Wieland, 157; Allan Packer, 167; Arnold Thompson, 137, and Harvey Hallum, 123. Wieland and Packer were also invited to the 1964 Olympic team trials.

Tuesday night was surprise night for wrestling coach Jerry Landwer, who received a special token of remembrance from past team captains Allan Packer and Harvey Hallum and 1966-67 captain Ron James. Before the win over archrival Graceland, the captains presented their coach a photographic album filled with action shots of members of his five NWMSC teams, who have compiled a 62-6 record.

Coach Landwer, wrestling coach and instructor in physical education, is completing his fifth year in his present post. In June he will start a year's leave of absence to complete work on his PhD degree in anatomy and physiology at the University of Missouri. Landwer, a native of Elgin, Ill., was graduated from Northeast High school in Lincoln, Neb. He received his B. S. and M. S. degrees in physical education at the University of Nebraska and has done some graduate work at the University of Iowa.

For two years in college he wrestled at 115 pounds. After an injury, he turned to gymnastics and was a member of the NU team which won the 1956 All-College National Championship. In 1957, he served as freshman gymnastics coach when the Lincoln squad repeated as national champions.

Prior to coming to Maryville, Coach Landwer was head wrestling coach and assistant track coach at Kenosha, Wis., for three years. His mat teams compiled a 33-1-3 record there. He also served two years as assistant football and head gymnastics coach at Beatrice, Neb. From 1961-64 Landwer was chairman of the Missouri Valley AAU Wrestling Committee.

Coach Landwer's initial wrestling team at NWMSC consisted of seven freshmen and two upperclassmen. Following that first

Bearcats to Face Strong Foes In State Wrestling Tournament

"The competition will be a lot tougher this year."

This is the way head wrestling coach Jerry Landwer surveys the degree of difficulty in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association Wrestling Tournament to be held in Lamkin Gymnasium tomorrow. With eight conference champs returning to defend their titles, action should be exciting.

Champs entered this year and the weight class they will be competing at are Jim Earle, 115; Guy Jackson, 123; Ron James, 152; Buzz Matson, 152; Reg Coates, 167; Al Borkowski, 191; Gary Givens, 191, and Walt Fuller, heavyweight.

Last year, the first time a conference mat meet had been held, the Bearcats and Central Missouri tied in the tournament. Warrensburg and Maryville will again be the favorites to win the finale. Central Missouri brings four returning champs to Maryville while there are only three champs entered from NWMSC.

Earlier this year, the 'Cats beat Central in a dual match 25-12.

115-lb. — Freshmen Corky Crandall, NW, and Curd Alexander, NE, should be the top contenders in this light class.

Mat Timetable

First round	1:00
Semi-finals	2:30
Wrestle-backs	4:30
Consolation finals	7:00
Finals	8:00

Crandall took the Graceland and All-Missouri Tournament crowns but has been beaten by Alexander twice this season. Returning MIAA champ Jim Earle, Central, and runner-up Paul Lapinski, SE, will also be tough opponents. Earle recently suffered a shoulder injury and may not be performing at his best.

123-lb. — Guy Jackson, returning champ from Cape Girardeau; Graceland winner Pete Coppleditch, Central, and Ray Moncavage, NE, will enter a close race for laurels.

Earlier this year, Coppleditch drew with Jackson, and Moncavage won over Coppleditch. Also in this battle for honors will be freshman Terry Hartley, NW, a grappler who has improved greatly this semester.

130-lb. — Stan Zeamer, NW, will probably be the top-seeded matman at 130. He won the Graceland and All-Missouri Tournaments and was outstanding wrestler in the NWMSC Invitational. 1966 MIAA runner-up Bobby Gines, Central; Don Jacobs, SW, and Steve Burton, NE, will also be powerful scrappers in this class.

137-lb. — Paul Stehman, sophomore from Maryville, will have to vie with Al Hines, NE, for distinction. Stehman has posted an 8-4-1 record this season and Hines was third in the conference meet last year.

145-lb. — Bill Rex, NW, and Bill Graham, Central, will both enter the meet with outstanding credentials, and each has defeated the other once. At last report Graham had a 16-4 record, which included nine falls, and Rex owns a 17-5-1 mark. Also in contention will be Bill Meyer, SE, the third-placer in the conference last year.

152-lb. — Captain Ron James, NW, is expected to be nearly irrepressible in the conference race. James is a returning MIAA champ at 145 and won the MIAA Outstanding Wrestler Award last year. This year he has 12 pins, one over contender Buzz Matson, Central. Matson was conference champ at 152 last year.

160-lb. — Rich Downing, NW, and Tom Coil, Central, placed first and second, respectively, at Graceland, but other strong contestants will enter this race. Curtis Hines, NE, has beaten Downing, and Arty McCoy, SW, has cut weight from 167.

167-lb. — Reg Coates, Central, has good chances to repeat as a conference champ; last year he beat Tom Paulsen, NW, in the finale. Coates owns a 15-3 record, and Paulsen is 8-7 this year. Another contender is Randy Freeman, SE, a fourth place-winner in the All-Missouri.

177-lb. — George Simons, NE, and Woody Lowery, SW, will move down from 191 pounds for the conference meet. Simons has been pinned by Al Borkowski twice this year and should provide good competition for Bearcat Dale Palmer. Palmer has improved steadily the second semester. Another contestant will be Ernie Kern, third place finisher in the All-Missouri from Cape.

191-lb. — Borkowski, NW, and Gary Givens, Central, are both returning conference champs, Borkowski at 177 and Givens at 191. Givens won the Graceland Invitational at heavyweight and Borkowski won the All-Missouri at 191.

HWT — Defending MIAA champ Walt Fuller, SE, towers above the other big boys when credentials are compared, but he may be slowed by a shoulder injury. Fuller was second in the NCAA college division finals last year and won the All-Missouri earlier this year. Maryville's Doug Minnick will be competing against athletes much larger than he, including Kirksville's Rich Beard. Beard beat Borkowski at heavyweight in a dual meet in January.

Tankers Set Conference Relay Mark

In the recent MIAA Swim Meet, John Clover, Randy Hansen, Steve Connor, and Jerry Pearce established a new conference and school mark in the 400-yard freestyle relay. Their time of 3:34.4 broke the old record of 3:44.2. Bob Puck, Connor, Hansen, and Pearce together set the school 400-yard medley relay record with a 4:01.1 time.

Bearcat Thinclads Overwhelm Graceland in Season Opener

The Bearcat track team, ger, Norman Howlett, and Pete Meindertsma.

Kavanaugh and Roger Stucki, both of NWMSC, took first and second place in the mile run. The winning time in that event was Kavanaugh's 4:51.6.

Competing in the 440-yard dash for NWMSC were Miedertsma and Phil Frahm. The two finished first and second respectively, in this event, with the winning time being 1:07.4.

Hager with a time of 4.5, and Howlett, 4.8, won first and second in the 40-yard dash.

The next three events, the 40-yard high hurdles, the 880-yard run, and the 40-yard low hurdles were completely dominated by the Bearcats as they captured every place in each of these events. First places went to Parman, in the 40-yard high hurdles and in the 40-yard low hurdles, and to Kavanaugh in the 880-yard run.

Second places in each of these events went to Bob Graves in the 40-yard high hurdles, Stucki in the 880-yard run, and Ken Shaw in the 40-yard low hurdles.

Tomorrow the Bearcats expect to find stiffer competition when they meet the William Jewell Cardinals at 10 a. m. in Lamkin Gymnasium.

Taylor, Burton Star In 'The V. I. P.'s'

Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton star in tomorrow night's Den movie, "The V.I.P.'s."

A group of people face many crises when their London flight to New York is delayed. A glamorous wife is leaving her millionaire husband to run off with an international playboy. A tycoon must be in New York to arrange for a loan; a film magnate faces a ruinous income tax payment if he is not out of the country by midnight; and a scatterbrained duchess is off to Miami to save her family estate. The tension of 24 hours has important meaning for all of them.

The Den movie will be shown at 7 p. m. in the Administration Building Auditorium.

Coed Maintains:

'Sororities Are for Individualists'

"Greek individualist?"

Why not! Sorority life is not designed to be a limiting, constricting society. It is a social society where personal incentive is encouraged. Membership means being a part of a group that is bound together by certain ideals, beliefs, and goals.

Pledge is a period of probation during which the pledge takes on various responsibilities and learns the standards of the sorority to which she has pledged her allegiance. Although this orientation is thorough, complete understanding is achieved only after initiation.

The women in a sorority are not stereotypes. Each member of a sorority at NWMSC is an individual who has something to contribute to the group. In turn, each is benefitted by the 59 other donations. No matter how much time and talent is devoted to Greek life, the rewards received are many times greater.

Sorority life educates its members in aspects of life vital to adulthood. The Greek woman is recognized by her sense of responsibility, her organization of daily affairs, her devotion to the established beliefs of the sorority, and her respect and consideration for the beliefs of others.

What is it like to have 59 sisters? It gives one an awesome feeling of belonging. Every sorrow is comforted; every tear is multiplied by 59; every smile sets off a chain reaction when a single joy of one woman is shared and felt by all of her sisters.

Religious Emphasis Week Sparks Debate

Issue Depends On 'No Establishment'

Recent preparations for Religious Emphasis Week have brought to mind the argument of the separation of church and state in the United States today.

There have been numerous instances where the Federal Constitution has been contested relative to the first clause in the first of the Bill of Rights.

According to the Constitution of the United States, "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion." Supplementing and interpreting this rule from the First Amendment, the Supreme Court has handed down several decisions on the controversial First Amendment.

In the 1946 Supreme Court case, Illinois ex rel. versus McCollum, the court examined the constitutionality of non-mandatory Bible classes in a public school. During the classes the non-religious students in the school were required to go to another room and continue their secular studies. The Court said that such conduct was a violation of the First Amendment in that the use of public schools to sustain or aid a religious sect or belief is an establishment of religion by the government.

The case of Engel versus Vitale in 1957 resulted in the court ruling on a non-mandatory prayer given each morning before classes began. The court ruled that the prayer was not in keeping with the "no establishment" clause of the First amendment. Justice Black commented, "When the power, prestige, and financial support of government is placed behind a particular religious belief, the indirect coercive pressure upon religious minorities to conform to the previously officially approved religion is plain." Further the court explained that the fact that participation in the prayer was voluntary was not considered relative.

The Court ruled on Bible reading in public schools in the 1963 case of Schempp versus Abington School District. The Court said that daily reading of the Bible or any part of it (for instance, the Lord's Prayer), whether it was mandatory or non-mandatory, is unconstitutional.

The state Constitution of the State of Missouri also contains certain provisions for the separation of church and state within the state. In Article I, Section 7, the Constitution states "That no money shall ever be taken from the public treasury, directly or indirectly, in aid of any church, sect, or denomination or religion, or in aid of any priest, preacher, sister or teacher thereof . . ."

Article IX, Section 8 states, "Neither the general assembly, nor any county, town, township, school district, or other municipal corporation, shall ever make an appropriation or pay from any public fund whatever, anything in aid of any religious creed, church, or sectarian purpose . . ."

These facts concerning the separation of church and state are not cited because this writer is anti-religious or atheistic. Rather he believes such separation strengthens the position of religion and the government in that each can best function when not concerned with the other. He does not object to holding Religious Emphasis Week but believes the event should be held off-campus and should be sponsored exclusively by the various religious organizations.

The framers of the Constitution wanted the United States to be a country where each could worship or refuse to worship in his own way without the interference of the Federal or local government and without having to support the beliefs of others.

Smoking Cuts Wind Says AMA Report

The AMA reports that smoking cuts the wind of athletes.

Its committee on the medical aspects of sports discovered that ten inhalations of cigarette smoke may reduce the ability of the lungs to take in and utilize oxygen by as much as 50 per cent.

"The smoker, even though he may be a fine athlete, highly trained and skilled, may find that his capacity for that all-important finishing sprint or leap is lightly less than it might have been had he stayed away from tobacco," the AMA report concluded.

Man's Right...

Study of Religion

"Northwest Missouri State College is a school of higher education dedicated to the basic concern of revealing knowledge and truth in all areas.

"Religion is an integral part of the experience of man. As a part of man's experience, then, the college student should be and needs to be confronted with the ideologies which religion professes," commented the Rev. Ray Gass.

Just because an individual does not like sports is no excuse for the college not to buy uniforms. The same goes for the sponsoring of the poet, a folk singing group, Religious Emphasis Week, or the purchase of band uniforms. The money to sponsor Religious Emphasis Week comes from student activity funds just as does the money used to buy these uniforms and to sponsor other special programs.

Academic freedom is perhaps the basic right which college students, administrators, and faculty members value more than any other thing. Chief Justice Earl Warren declared in the Sweezy vs. New Hampshire case that "Scholarship cannot flourish in an atmosphere of suspicion and distrust. Teachers and students must always remain free to inquire, to study, and to evaluate; to gain new maturity and understanding; otherwise our civilization will stagnate and die."

Indeed, dealing with such a controversial issue as religion is to the credit of the college administration.

As college students we recognize that academic freedom should be our greatest concern. As we are recognized as responsible citizens, we are allowed to choose our own course of action. We are free to attend lectures and classes or not to attend. We are free to be apathetic, to be enthusiastic, or to march in protest.

We who believe that students here should have this right to investigate ideologies stand not alone.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes in the 1929 case of the U. S. vs. Schwimmer expressed his views about the decision. "If there is any principle of the Constitution that more imperatively calls for attachment than any other, it is the principle of free thought; not free thought for those who agree with us, but freedom for those whose thoughts we hate."

Arthur S. Flemming, former secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, decried the religious illiteracy of today's students and urged a "vigorous, comprehensive program to overcome it!" He quoted from the historic 1963 court decision which specifically encourages teaching "about" religion. (Phi Delta Kappa, February 1967.)

The historic 1963 decision to which Mr. Flemming referred is the Abington vs. Schempp case that ruled 8-1 against local laws which would regulate the reading of prayers and Bible verses in classrooms. Yet, as it has been pointed out, this decision did not rule out the academic study of religion.

In a paragraph of Justice Clark's minority opinion it was stated, "Nothing we have said here indicates that such study of the Bible or of religion, when presented objectively as part of the secular program of education, may not be effected consistent with the First Amendment."

The purpose of Religious Emphasis Week at MSC is not to convert students nor to indoctrinate anyone, but merely to provide one more area of study and investigation in the experience of the student.
